

Operational description

ScanMonkeys are combined 'keyboard and mouse' HIDs, which act as an alternative to a computer keyboard/mouse for use by people with disabilities.

The microprocessor scans for key presses and then send appropriate command over USB to the computing device. The user can control the device by single switch, or bey infrared 'keyfob'.