IMPORTANT: MAINTAINING BATTERY HEALTH

- Your massager is designed with a lithium-ion battery pack for cordless convenience, increased massage duration per charge, and frequent use and recharging.
- To maintain charge capacity and prevent battery damage, all lithium-ion batteries must be regularly used and recharged.
- For optimal battery health, keep the battery at approximately 50% state of charge when not in use.
- All batteries naturally lose charge when not in use. If you will not be using the massager for an extended period, check the massager at least every 30 days to ensure the battery is at approximately 50% state of charge. Recharge as needed to maintain a 50% state of charge but do not overcharge.
- IMPORTANT: DO NOT store the battery for an extended period with above 60% or below 40% state of charge. An incorrect state of charge during storage could irreparably damage the battery and may result in reduced charge capacity, inability to maintain charge, failure to recharge, or complete inoperability of the massager.
- For the health of the battery, always store the massager in a cool, dry place. The storage location should have a consistent temperature between 40°F and 70°F (5°C and 20°C) as well as a relative humidity at 70% or lower.
