- The product will now use both Bluetooth and Wifi to make secure and strong connections between your phone, and the adapter, and your car's infotainment system.
- NOTE: Depending on your vehicle and your phone, the initial pairing and connection process may take some time to complete. Please allow a few minutes without pressing any additional buttons for the system to initialize.

TROUBLESHOOTING

Delays sometimes occur during the pairing process between your mobile device and the adapter. These can happen for a number of reasons.

1. The adapter has two separate pairing modes for CarPlay (CP) and Android Auto (AA).
   - While the adapter is in pairing mode, your car's infotainment screen will show the Bluetooth® name of your adapter as well as "CP" or "AA" in the bottom left corner, indicating what mode it is in.

(Simulated Screen Image)

(Current Mode) (Current Firmware)

   - If your mobile devices does not match the adapter pairing mode, the adapter will automatically reset itself, switch to the correct mode, and try again to pair to your mobile device. The LED light will go from blinking, to solid blue, and then return to blinking. This process may take up to 1 minute.
   - If this auto-pairing does not succeed in connecting to your phone, you may need to access your Bluetooth® list and select the Monster device manually. Your adapter will now connect and CarPlay/Android Auto will show on your car's infotainment screen.
2. The adapter is in Standby Mode, not Pairing Mode.
   - If the LED is lit solid blue, the adapter is not ready to pair. Press and hold the button for 5 seconds, the LED will begin blinking when it is ready to pair.

3. Sometimes a previously established Bluetooth connection between your phone and your car may interrupt connection to the adapter.
   - You can disconnect from or forget your car's Bluetooth in your mobile device to avoid this issue.
4. Sometimes your phone and the adapter connect successfully but CarPlay/Android Auto does not initialize on your car's infotainment screen.
   - If your phone shows that both Bluetooth and wifi are connected to the adapter, try turning your car off and back on again. On many vehicles the system will not fully shut down unless you turn off the car AND open the door. Upon restarting your vehicle the adapter should make the connection, but please note this may take a few moments.
