

IN ALL SERIOUSNESS, READ THE TERMS

Limits of Use: Though it is legal to carry defense sprays in all 50 States, there are a number of cities and states with specific regulations pertaining to the purchase, possession and use of aerosol defense sprays. If you are unsure of the restrictions in your area, check with your local law enforcement for specific laws regarding the possession and use of defense spray products. We CANNOT ship the Defender 24/7 product to your home in New York. NY customers will pickup their purchase from an authorized dealer. Massachusetts, Wisconsin and Michigan customers have some restrictions, so please check with your local law enforcement. We do not ship internationally or by air. Improper use of Defender 24/7 may result in criminal action, and you could be sued, or in some states you may be fined or imprisoned. Pepper spray is only considered legal as a reasonable response to someone that is using unlawful force against you. Because using pepper spray is not using deadly force, according to the law, it is legal to use it for personal protection. The Defender 24/7 will contain pepper spray and may not be carried on a commercial airline where it is accessible - this is a federal crime and carries a large fine. Applicable laws and regulations pertaining to the purchase, possession and use of aerosol defense sprays may change prior to the shipment of the Defender 24/7 product. If it is illegal to deliver the product to your shipping address at the time of shipment, then we will refund your purchase. NOTE: Pepper spray products may not be sold to minors under the age of 18, and the Defender should always be kept out of the reach of children. The Defender 24/7 is not for sale in Canada.
