

Tuneup Procedure

The rf power output is preset during the manufacturing process. The power output is maintained within its operating range via ALC circuit. The transmitter uses a frequency synthesizer thus there are no frequency alignments that must be made.