Dear Seven,

The application review is complete. The only review item is that the statements in the user manual need to be revised as shown below. If you have questions, please ask.

Q1: Please revise the user manual RF exposure statement to include statements suitable for a portable category device with SAR evaluation. The statement on page is suitable for mobile category devices where separation distance is > 20 cm. Some examples can be seen in the user manuals at the following URL's

Best regards,

Tim Dwyer

Dear Sir,

Please see the revised user manual.

We asked FCC to change the client's address.

When we get the revised address, we'll sent mail to you.

Before changing the client's address, please don't issue the certification.

Thank you.

Best Regards,

Gina

Dear Gina,

I will wait to send the application for certification until I hear from you.

In the meantime, the manual should also include some additional advice to the user like in the examples I sent. The certification grant will include a condition statement similar to the following one. Please do not delete anything, but this statement should be added to what is in the revised manual you sent.

This device has been tested for compliance with FCC RF Exposure (SAR) limits in a typical laptop computer configuration and can be used in desktop or laptop computers with side mounted USB slots. Use in other portable or handheld products like PDA or similar devices has not been verified and may not be in compliance with RF exposure rules. Use in these devices is prohibited.

Best regards,

Tim Dwyer
