

Circuit Description

Voice passes through radio reception into the compression chip (31101).

After the conditioning, the beautified sounds of people enter pre-emphasis processing again, in order to get a higher Signal-to-Noise.

Then modulating to deal with the audio signal. The modulation pronunciation signal passes through the antenna by the carrier frequency (203.6MHz) to transmit.